

Nationals Play Last Game of Series With Post Tomorrow

WOODMAN PITCH AGAINST JOHNSON

These Two Stars Likely to Meet in Final Game With Boston Today.

SERIES WITH NEW YORK WILL START TOMORROW

Nationals May Make Up Enough Ground Against Yankees to Regain Lead.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

BOSTON, Mass., June 1.—In the hope of winning the old game of the series here, Manager Griffith will send Walter Johnson to the slab today. There is a slight chance of Walter being opposed by Joe Wood, although "Smoky" is said to be far from in form. If Wood is not worked, Rankin Johnson may be sent back. He has an even break to date with his famous namesake and Carrigan may figure that he is the logical man to pit against the Nationals star.

If the Nationals can continue to play the same kind of a hustling game that has marked their stay in this city, there is an excellent chance of their being on top when the end comes. There is a lot of fighting spirit about the Griffins that other teams do not display. Incidentally, there is a vast improvement in the hitting. The development of Shanks and the return to form of Moeller makes a whole lot of difference in the team's offensive strength. Gandil gradually is regaining his best batting ability, but Morgan, although he has been showing more than he did earlier in the season, is yet far from being the hitter he was last year. The hitting of the team has been nothing short of sensational, and probably will continue to be if the present combination remains intact.

With any sort of a break the Nationals ought to move back to first place before they start west Thursday night. There are four games to be played in New York. The series starts with a double-header Tuesday, and while the Braves must be figured as early picking the kind of ball the Nationals have been playing should give them the majority of the games. While Griffith's team is engaged at New York, the Athletics are in Boston, and they are slated to play five games in three days, and as they have another double-header in New York today it looks very much as if this bunching of conflicts will badly exhaust Macfadyen's pitching staff. The Boston team, which is the way, would rather beat the Nationals than any other club, is not going to prove easy picking in the coming series, and it may be its lot to win a majority of the games. The Nationals ought to pass to the front again before they start on their first invasion of the west.

The Federal League is not overlooking any chances to make players. Agents of the league are traveling around the country taking large figures to ball players, and even making them proposals to jump at once. Jim Shaw is one of the Nationals that have been talked to by the Federal League. The St. Louis club had a chat with Shaw in Washington just before the team left there, but the first thing that came about it was to run and tell Griffith. There is, of course, no danger of Shaw taking such a foolish step.

Another story emanating from the Fed publicity department is to the effect that the Wards, owners of the Brooklyn club, propose to make Walter Johnson an offer of $100,000 to sign a three-year contract. The Nationals will not be at all surprised if the offer is made, but it stands to reason that if such a figure were offered he could not turn it down to get away from Washington.

Griffith, however, is not allowing himself to be worried by the offer. He contends that the new league is on its last legs and is only bluffing.

After Neff, the Virginia collegian, has worked out a few days with the Nationals, it will not be at all surprising if he is given a chance at second base. Griffith is particularly anxious to develop a catcher in the new league, and Neff is a promising one. He is expected to be fortified in the event of an injury to Morgan, and, incidentally, in case Morgan's slump with the stick continues indefinitely.

The opinion of every one who saw Neff play at Virginia for the past two years is that he is sure to develop into a cracking good player, but, of course, there is a lot of difference between college ball and in a major league, and Neff will be looked over before any opinion is passed on his ability to make good in this company.

In the double-header which is expected to be played in New York Tuesday, Griffith will most likely pitch Jim Shaw and "Doc" Ayres. Shaw is not apt to have another off day. Saturday, in fact, he had more stuff than he could control. Ayres, however, is being called upon to give a good account of himself. But as Johnson is to pitch today, he will not be so much worried by the New York series, but probably will open in St. Louis.

College sports are about ended for the year. With the exception of the regatta at Poughkeepsie and one or two events between rival institutions, there will be no more big contests until the fall.

The foot ball season starts next fall. The colleges in the south Atlantic section have finished their work, with the exception of Georgetown's final base ball game today, with the Pittsburgh collegians.

It is going to be a difficult matter to select a winner of the base ball championship. There are going to be claims for the honor among the smaller, or secondary, colleges, though the chances are it will be given to one of the big universities. Harvard stood a very good chance of being credited with the title until it was defeated decisively by Dartmouth the other day.

The Crimson, provided it wins the series with Yale and Princeton, may be awarded the honor anyway. But that 10-to-3 defeat at the hands of the "big green" nine is going to cast a damper on such a selection. Dartmouth has also administered a severe beating to the University of Virginia. Then Georgetown may put in a claim. The Blue and Gray has done such brilliant work of late that it cannot help receiving notice when a final lining up of the teams is made.

There is hardly any doubt about Georgetown having the best team in the south Atlantic section. The Blue and Gray has been consistently winning, and it must be given whatever honors accrue from its record.
